Concept Note:

A considered view of global transformations can convincingly ascertain the foundational role history, politics, culture and ideology play in the genesis of literature and also of journalism per se. The putative proximity of the two apparently independent disciplines, both, in terms of their intent, and arena, plays a significant role in dealing with the problematic embodied in the suffix of the title.

The global literary panorama today brings in a stunning variety of literary and intellectual productions in which more than one genres, contextual intricacies, and multiple linguistic tropes operate simultaneously. Simultaneity, in fact, characterizes the very essence of literature and its functions which very often do not fit in the traditional definitions. Obliteration of generic boundaries and initiation of poststructuralist notions of the nature and texture of text and textualities have radically altered the ideas about creative discourses, their cultural associations and pedagogical strategies. Besides, literary discourses across the continents are invariably tinged with history and ideology. One wonders, at times, where history begins and fiction ends or vice a versa. Literary journalism and/or journalistic modes in literature further raise questions about generic authenticity, literary finesse and associational delicacy. All these issues attribute unprecedented complexity to literary dimensions beyond the conventional notions of literature and literary text.

Extensive use of electronic media like twitter, blog, facebook, WhatsApp etc. as handy means and modes of personal expressions on a variety of issues ranging from personal to social, political, moral, economic, ethnic and international issues, has further added to the intricacies of the inclusiveness of a literary product in the national and international context. Issues of aesthetics, generic excellence, multiplicity of meanings and functions of linguistic strategies, therefore, need to be reconsidered. Deliberations on these issues and many more apropos of the central theme of the conference will, surely, open up fresh avenues for a comprehensive understanding and pedagogy of literature and intellectual productions.

University & Maulana Azad Chair at a Glance :

Situated on 650 acres of land Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, is adorned with scenic beauty and magnificent historicity. Besieged by the enthralling range of hills at the North-Eastern side, the University has Bibi ka Muqbara, a replica of Taj Mahal, at the Eastern side and Panchakki (Water-mill), a sixteenth century grinding device, that catered to the basic needs of the seekers of knowledge and divine experience, at North. Khultabad and Paithan in the vicinity, the heavenly abode of the Sufis and Saints add significant colours to the secular culture of Aurangabad. The stunning frescoes and murals of Ajanta and mesmerizing sculpture of Ellora Caves have obtained Aurangabad a prominent place in the World Cultural Heritage.

Named after the chief architect of Indian Constitution, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar, the University has been consistently engaged in promoting education in the remotest corners of the region.

Dr. BAMU is one of the only six universities in the country to enjoy the honour of holding Maulana Abul Kalam Azad Chair sponsored by the University Grants Commission, New Delhi. Maulana Abul Kalam Azad is the most noted leader who dedicated his entire life to promote preserve and practice secularism in the country. Azad throughout his life made the best of his efforts to strengthen Hindu Muslim Unity and Communal Harmony. His efforts and his ideas have made unforgettable contribution to the secular and intellectual status of the Nation. The basic objectives of the chair therefore are primarily to promote Azad's views and ideas on Secularism, Education, National and Cultural integrity. The other equally important dimensions of Maulana Azad like a journalist, a poet, an essayist and a thinker are also to be highlighted. The chair has introduced one semester certificate course named as Communal Harmony and Social Peace. It is an unconventional course which decides scholarship lays equal emphasis on its sociocultural relevance, peace and prosperity of the nation. Maulana Abul Kalam Azad logically and even logistically, in terms of the entire body of his literary, political, journalistic and intellectual writings, very conveniently and plausibly offers himself as an excellent example. The seminar will address the multifarious contribution of Azad and bring in a few like him.

Lokseva College of Arts & Science Aurangabad:

Lokseva Education Society's College of Arts and Science established in 1997 with a vision to impart quality education and provide valuable service in the field of education. The College is run by the Lokseva Education Society and is affiliated to Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University Aurangabad. Lokseva College of Arts & Science, serves the diverse educational needs of the students by providing opportunities for life-long learning. The vision of our institution aims at the upliftment of backward students through education, to bring them into the mainstream of the modern world. This in turn, will result in individual and societal transformation. Our continuous endeavor is to instill the right values in our students. All this is done with total commitment, dedication and devotion. We offer an academic course that facilitates an overall development of the human personality in all its dimensions intellectual, physical, social, moral and spiritual.

Writing Today Literary Association:

Writing Today Literary Association seeks to promote scholarly interest in languages, cultures and literatures produced across the globe and ensure that literature, criticism and pedagogy thrives in a conducive and productive environment. With a view to fostering a community beyond borders, both in a literal as well as a metaphorical sense, given to promotion and preservation of larger human values and authentic intellectual endeavors, the association publishes a journal called Writing Today International Journal of Studies in English. It is a peer-reviewed refereed journal supported by rigorous process of criterion-referenced article ranking and qualitative commentary ensuring that only intellectual work of the substance and significance is published. Another regular feature of the journal is A Shriek in the Desert which exclusively presents English translations of/or creative and critical writings about the writers from the marginality, writers who deserve attention in the recent ideological context. Besides holding a seminar on current issues every year the WTLA will organize programmes in honour of the recognized creative writers, critics and academics.

This conference is dedicated to
Prof. Intekhab Hameed Khan
for his distinguished services in the field of literary, cultural and intellectual disciplines

A Recipient of Fulbright, Jivan Gavray Puraskar, Best Teacher Award and a number of other honours, Prof. Hameed Khan is a recognized scholar, teacher and translator. His English, Urdu and Marathi translations have been published by Shahitya Academy New Delhi, Maharashtra State Urdu Academy Mumbai and various other prestigious institutions. His Urdu criticism is well received in the literary and academic circles. Prof. Khan's research papers have appeared in various reputed journals and books. He is the Chief Editor of Writing Today: International Journal of Studies in English.
